

Books

Humanly Possible: Stories of Secular Recovery, 1st edition (2019). A collection of stories from members of LifeRing Secular Recovery, SMART Recovery, and AA Freethinkers, organizations that seek to help people free themselves from substance use disorder without pressuring them to believe things that are foreign to their world-views.

Empowering Your Sober Self, 2nd Edition. An introduction to LifeRing. Written for the person who wants to get free of alcohol/ drugs, for their friends and relations, and for the professionals who treat them.

Recovery By Choice: Living and Enjoying Life Free of Alcohol and Drugs, A Workbook, 4th Edition. A self-help workbook that helps you build your personal recovery program.

How Was Your Week? 2nd Edition. A book for people who want to convene a LifeRing meeting. Essential reading for new convenors and a must for experienced convenors, who want a deeper understanding of how a LifeRing meeting works.

Buy these books at LifeRing meetings or online at www.lifering.org.

LifeRing Secular Recovery is an abstinence-based, worldwide network of individuals seeking to live in recovery from substance use disorder to alcohol or to other non-medically indicated drugs.

In LifeRing, we offer each other peer-to-peer support in ways that encourage personal growth and continued learning through personal empowerment.

Our approach is based on developing, refining, and sharing our own personal strategies for continued abstinence and crafting a rewarding life in recovery. In short, we are sober, secular, and self directed.

There are as many ways to live free of drugs and alcohol as there are stories of successful sober people.

LifeRing respectfully embraces what works for each individual.

To find out more about LifeRing:

Browse www.lifering.ie, the Internet voice of LifeRing Secular Recovery. Join LifeRing's email groups and cha meetings

Sobriety

Is Our Priority

LifeRing Secular Recovery
www.lifering.ie
info@lifering.ie
1800 938 768

Sobriety Is Our Priority

There comes a time in a drinking/using life when you know inside that you need to stop. You've tried cutting down, you've tried taking time off, you've tried every trick in the book to bring your habit under control, and nothing has worked. Now it's time to try something radically new and different: abstinence.

You may be surprised to hear this, but abstinence is easier than trying to limit, control, or moderate your intake. Whenever you have "just one," you reinforce cravings that will torture you to have another and another. But if you stop completely, your cravings will fade, and you can learn effective tools to deal with them if they return.

Besides, "just one" never turned you on anyway, did it? You never wanted just to get a slight buzz. You wanted to get wasted. Even if you could stop after one you would never want to. So why pretend that "moderate use" is what you want? Who are you kidding?

Maybe the time has come for you to stop torturing yourself, stop kidding yourself, and stop wasting your life repeating things that don't work. Instead of "just one," step up to "just zero." Stop completely. Join the one third of Americans who never drink or use at all.

Yes, easier said than done. But not as hard as you may think, either. Visit a meeting of almost any recovery group, including LifeRing Secular Recovery ("LifeRing"), and you'll find people who are pretty much a cross section. Few saints or super-heroes. Nothing really extraordinary about us, except that we all used to drink and/or drug too much, and we all learned we could stop. If we can do it, can it be so hard?

In LifeRing we have the motto: "Sobriety Is Our Priority." When we drank and/or used, our addiction was our priority. We built our lives around feeding our habit. We'd go anywhere, do anything to get our drink or drug. Now we turn that principle around. We rebuild our lives around staying clean and sober. We reinvent ourselves as persons who don't drink or use.

The Sobriety Priority means that we do whatever it takes to maintain our sobriety. We don't drink or use, no matter what. We know that if we have our sobriety, we can have everything that life has in store for us. But if we lose our sobriety, we stand to lose everything else, including life itself.

The Sobriety Priority is a bright line through the confusion of life. Every decision, even seemingly trivial ones, has two branches: one that reinforces sobriety, and one that leads away. By making sobriety our priority in everything we do, life begins to make sense again and our daily activity becomes more purposeful and intelligent.

Before we got into recovery, many of us feared that sobriety was a world of gray. We imagined we couldn't be at ease socially, or have fun at a party, or feel good without the drug. We have learned that all of this was wrong. Seen in the rear view mirror, drinking/using were a constant hammering on our body's pleasure systems. It felt so good finally to stop.

Some people do experience discomfort during withdrawal, and life does not automatically turn into a rose garden. If you are a very heavy drinker or user, you may need medical care during the first day or two after stopping. But even a bad day is a victory when you lay your head on a pillow substance free. Many people experience a period of spontaneous euphoria when they stop using. Life sober has all the colors, tastes, smells, sounds and textures. Not only can you still rock 'n roll sober; you can rock 'n roll better, and remember it afterward.

Some people are afraid to stop because they see drink or drugs as "medication" for their psychological problems. But after only a few months of abstinence, they commonly find that many of these problems disappear of their own accord. The remaining problems, if any, then gradually become more manageable.

After we achieve a stable sobriety, we can confront our inner demons and stitch up the scars in our soul. A health care professional with expertise in chemical dependency can help us with counseling and/or appropriate prescription medications, if necessary.

Getting sober is a skill that almost anyone can learn. Like learning to ride a bicycle, at first you may fall down a lot, but you'll improve with practice and support. If you exploit a relapse as a deep learning experience, you will have longer and longer periods of comfortable abstinence. Many people never relapse at all.

Sobriety lifts a heavy burden from us and empowers us to improve our lives. What we do with our new freedom is up to us. LifeRing does not try to prescribe a "Way of Life." We celebrate recovery as a liberation of the human potential. Wherever you are, whatever you do, whatever your dream, you can move forward when you leave drink and drugs behind.

If you'd like to discuss your situation in confidence, and talk with people who've "been there" and now practice complete abstinence from alcohol and drugs, feel free to visit any LifeRing meeting or visit a LifeRing chat room online.

For a complete schedule of LifeRing meetings, face-to-face and online, point your browser to www.lifering.ie or contact LifeRing , 1800 938 768 or info@lifering.ie.